About IAATH

IAATH was founded in 1999 after several years of organizational meetings by dedicated and diverse professionals wanting to help others in their fields. The founding council members contributed hundreds of hours and thousands of dollars to ensure a solid foundation for IAATH. They had nothing to gain for themselves as all were professionals with successful practices. Their vision was to help set standards and guidelines in these emerging careers and dissolve the fear and conflict through collaborative models of working together for the well-being of animals.

Today, IAATH invites you to share the vision of the foundation council and members to help support and develop our international network and database of information and resources in the animal therapy and healing fields. From massage therapy to aromatherapy and behavior to veterinary medicine, IAATH is the only integrated voice representing all disciplines in animal health care.

Focus of IAATH

Help IAATH to:

- ▽ Coordinate the growing number of people, in addition to veterinarians, who are seeking professions working with animals
- ▽ Ensure that animal guardians (owners) have choices and take part in their animal's health care
- ▽ Provide a network for sharing research, education and information in these emerging fields
- ▽ Support a "common ground" where all healing modalities can come together
- ▽ Develop models for cooperative and concurrent care of animals involving a variety of professional practitioners
- ▽ Assist people in how to make change legislatively
- ▽ Cooperate with other organizations that have common interests and goals
- ▽ Define these emerging fields and recommend standards of competency
- ▽ Produce a directory of animal health practitioners, schools, services and products
- ▽ Educate the public, practitioners and students concerning these new careers

Why Join?

- ▽ Network with other professionals
- ▽ Learn how to promote and gain acceptance for your profession
- ▽ Protect your right to choose animal care
- ▽ Find professional practitioners
- ▽ Ensure proper application of products or services
- ▽ Develop models for working together
- ▽ Stay current on regulations
- ▽ Access international data-base for research and education
